The Story of Corn

USC Canada's "The Story of Corn" is a storytelling tool that uses a script, and visual aids, to illuminate the story of corn – its history, and its role in today's environment and society. The picture below shows the final display as it will appear at the end of the script. The script is available online for use and adaptation, while the list of materials suggests how you can create the accompanying visual aids yourself. If you use the Story of Corn, or have any questions, please email Kate Green at kgreen@usc-canada.org. Appropriate for environmental and social justice education for ages 5-15.
